These are our stories.

Dear _____,

Greetings! I am involved with the disability community and live in your area. I invite you to join us in staying informed and motivated to support disability-related issues by exploring the links each organization has provided at:

CommunityConnectME.org

As individuals, we also have stories to share, and our personal perspectives can be informative and insightful. We urge you to please work to put policies in place to support our community. These policies cross many domains—from healthcare and housing to education, employment, and transportation—and span an individual’s lifetime. We are here to support you in your understanding of these complex issues, and encourage you to contact us for more information as these issues arise.

Best Regards,
